Architecture

Venice Architecture Biennale 2012

Young Arab Architects, collateral event

Even though the show's presentation was not as inspirational as it could be, the presence of (usually underrepresented) Arab architects in Venice is certainly very welcome. Hosted in the CA'ASI, the Common House by AS Architecture Studio Architects, Young Arab Architects shows the results of the recent competition of the same name that highlighted the work of practices such as Kilo Architectures of Morocco and Khalid Al Najjar of the UAE.
